MedtecLIVE with T4M: Early birds save until 30 November

Planning for the Medtech event in southern Germany are in full swing: The next MedtecLIVE with T4M will take place from the 23 to the 25 of May in Nuremberg. Exhibitors who book an exhibition stand before the end of November can make double savings. NürnbergMesse is offering an attractive early bird discount until 30 November 2022.

MedtecLIVE with T4M offers a platform for personal interaction for all suppliers of medical technology, from component manufacturers via mechanical engineers and toolmakers to consultants, software providers and OEMs. Next year, current trends and research results can be found not only at the fair itself; various presentation stages, special areas and events are seamlessly integrated into the show and promise knowledge sharing at the highest level. "We are looking forward to greeting Europe's medtech scene next year in Nuremberg," says Christopher Boss, the Executive Director of MedtecLIVE at NürnbergMesse. "MedtecLIVE with T4M will continue to develop its unique focus on future issues and – as always – take the whole of the value chain into account."

Double summit meeting: MedtecSUMMIT and Industrial SUMMIT

As in previous years, the international congress MedtecSUMMIT of the Bavarian Ministry of Economy, Energy and Regional Development in association with MedtecLIVE with T4M once again offers an important dialogue platform for innovations in the medical technology branch. "The synergy between the MedtecSUMMIT and MedtecLIVE with T4M is the European Centre for Innovation in Medical Technology," promises Dr. Jörg Traub, Managing Director Forum Medtech Pharma, Head of Health of Bayern Innovative and member of the Steering Committee of MedtecLIVE with T4M. While at MedtecLIVE with T4M, practical and scientific contributions are presented on major trends such as digitalisation, artificial intelligence, robotics and sustainability and regulation, the Industrial SUMMIT focuses on
